VOSBURG IS NOW CITY SOLICITOR

HIS ELECTION AND QUALIFICATIONS ARE COMPLETE.

Select Council Last Night Directed a Discontinuance of the Appeal from the Mandamus and Forthwith Approved the Bond as Directed by the Local Court—Must Now Proceed to Establish His Right to the Office—Nominations Received from Mayor and Confirmed.

Select council took chances on being contemptuous to the Supreme court and approved the bond of A. A. Vosburg as city solicitor.

It was a surprise party to the anti-Vosburg men. Until the head of new business, Mr. Finn introduced and secured the passage of a resolution declaring that the select council did not wish to further prosecute the appeal to the Supreme court from the mandamus directing the members to approve the Vosburg bond, and directing that Attorney James H. Torrey be empowered to enter an appearance for the select council and discontinue the appeal. Then the motion to approve the bond was put and carried by a vote of eleven to nothing.

When the resolution was introduced Mr. Melvin indignantly protested against the "trickery" that he alleged was behind the measure, and Mr. McCann, with a show of indignation somewhat milder than Mr. Melvin's, spoke against summary action in such an important matter, and demanded that it be referred to committee for consideration. Their protests were, however, unavailing. Mr. McCann's motion to refer was defeated by the following vote:

Ayes—Messrs. Kearney, Melvin, Wagner, McCann, O'Boyle—5.
Nays—Messrs. Finn, Ross, Thomas, Williams, James, Chittenden, Schneider, Sanderson, Fellows, Lansing, Coyne—11.

The bond was then taken up for approval and adopted. Mr. Kearney tried to break a quorum and was confident of success when Mr. Coyne was prevailed upon to leave, but the move was defeated by the refusal of Mr. Wagner to resort to this extremity in opposing the approval of the bond. Messrs. Coyne and O'Boyle later returned, but Messrs. Kearney, McCann and Melvin, after offering in the corridor for a while, left the building in disgust.

Mr. Vosburg will move at once to secure possession of the office, it was stated, after the meeting.

NUMBER OF NOMINATIONS.

Mayor Moir nominated Professor George W. Phillips as trustee of the Scranton Public Library to succeed W. J. Welsh, resigned, and the nomination was unanimously confirmed. The removal of George Connors from the position of engineer of the Crystal Steamer was communicated to council in a letter from Mayor Moir. The reason assigned for the dismissal was that Engineer Connors was responsible for the disabling of the engine by leaving water in its flues while it was stored in temporary quarters, last winter, causing them to freeze up and burst. The matter was referred to the fire department committee.

Confirmation was given the mayor's nominations of Dr. Thomas B. Rodham to succeed Dr. J. K. Bentley, and Dr. George B. Reynolds to succeed Dr. W. A. Paine on the board of health. Dr. Bentley, whose term expires in 1903, has resigned. Dr. Paine's term has expired.

The nomination of Thomas H. Jones as inspector of Hyde Park avenue park was referred to committee. Mr. Melvin called attention to the fact that Joseph Taylor was appointed to this position in 1897, but he has never been confirmed. It was stated that to confirm the Jones appointment would make the city liable for the salaries of two inspectors. Chairman Williams volunteered the information that Mr. Taylor's resignation was in the hands of the council, though it was to wait till the resignation was in evidence. Later in the evening, while the Democrats were absent in the attempt to break a quorum, as detailed above, action was reconsidered and the appointment confirmed. The Taylor resignation was presented by the mayor in the interim.

The appointment of Robert M. Walker as inspector of the Philo street and Providence road pike was confirmed, despite a protest from Mr. Melvin that the committee's competency accompanied the confirmation.

DECLINED TO COMPLY.

Controller Howell sent in a communication declining to comply with the resolution requesting him to certify the contract for Section B, Fifth sewer district, reiterating his previous objection based on the clause of the Act of 1889, reading: " * * * And no appropriation shall be made for any purpose in excess of the estimated receipts for the current fiscal year."

The controller says in his communication: "While I am fully aware of the necessity of completing the above-named sewer, before commencing the same, I might, for reasons fully as cogent, certify all other contracts of this class for which no actual pecuniary provision has been made out of the general budget."

In conclusion, he again urges the council to adopt some remedial measures looking to an actual appropriation of funds for the work.

A communication was received from Mayor Moir urging the enforcement of the old special license ordinance and suggesting that the matter be referred to a special committee that the ordinance might be made to fit the changed conditions. The request was granted and Chairman Williams named Messrs. Sanderson, Chittenden and Melvin as the special committee.

A resolution was introduced by Mr. Chittenden empowering the mayor to tender to the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company a reduction of assessments to a nominal figure on any shops of like property tending to increase the employment of men, which may be constructed by the company within the city of Scranton.

Mr. Wagner thought the corporations were granted too much exemption already by Supreme court decisions and moved to have the motion referred to committee. Messrs. Lansing and Chittenden explained that the purpose of the resolution was to indicate to the company that the council was desirous of encouraging it in every way possible to enlarge its works in this city and to also contract the effects as the movement of the new board of assessors to tax the locomotive shops on the strength of the technicality that they have become construction shops and are not merely repair shops, as formerly, which latter, under the law, are exempt.

DECLARED OUT OF ORDER.

Chairman Williams put an end to the discussion by declaring the resolution out of order on Mr. Coyne's point, that the shops had not as yet been built and therefore could not be exempted. A resolution by Mr. Chittenden extending the Young Men's Christian association from taxes on its property on Wyoming avenue for the time elapsed since the fire, was also opposed by Mr. Wagner and referred to committee. Under the law, Mr. Chittenden explained, property used for charitable purposes is exempt from taxation. Before the fire the Y. M. C. A. was exempt from assessment on such portions of its building as was not earning a revenue. There is no revenue being derived now from the property and it could be granted. Mr. Chittenden argued, that it should be exempted as the property of a charitable organization, not earning revenue. He was not opposed to having the matter referred.

A notice from Controller Howell noting that the fire department committee had contracted bills to the amount of $462 for furniture for the Crystal House without providing funds for their payment brought from Mr. Chittenden a strong condemnation of the practice of the committee in contracting bills and the contention that it was an open source of fraud. The chief of the department, he argued, should be alone empowered to contract bills.

Mr. McCann thought the calls were excessive. Mr. Sanderson and Mr. Lansing thought it was unusual for the councils to be called upon to pay for furniture for the fire companies' parlors, having understood that the companies looked after these expenses themselves. Mr. Finn said it was neither unusual nor unjust and also defended the present system of having the fire department committee empowered to contract bills.

Ordinances were introduced creating the office of park policeman and fixing his salary at $75; providing for a lateral sewer on Washington avenue, between New York and Marion streets, and transferring $150 from the appropriation for electric lights to Fifth ward sewer repairs.

The ordinance for asphalt paving Clay avenue, between Vine and Myrtle street, passed first and second reading.

Ordinances passed on third reading transferring $750 to the item for Eighteenth ward street repairs and directing that all revenues at the park be devoted to park purposes.

On account of a defect, the ordinance for an additional man at the Hook and Ladder house was ruled out of order on this reading.

The resolution to pay the bill of $87 for the printing of Mayor Bailey's messages was killed.

The bond of Building Inspector Jackson was approved and he is qualified to enter upon the office.

SUPT. LOOMIS ARRIVES.

New Head of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal and Land Department Assumes Office Today.

E. E. Loomis, former superintendent of the New York, Susquehanna and Western company, arrived here last evening to succeed W. R. Storrs as general agent of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company. Under the official order announcing his appointment, Mr. Loomis is given the title of "superintendent of coal mining properties." The office of assistant general agent is abolished.

Mr. Loomis is stopping at the Jermyn. He is a young man of pleasant address, and strikes one at the very first glance as being possessed of no limit of force and energy.

To a Tribune reporter, who sought an interview as to the policy he will observe in conducting the important and extensive duties of his new office, he would only say at present that he intended to apply to the department the aggressive methods that have characterized railroad management during the past decade and hoped in a short time to have it thoroughly reorganized along these lines.

Referring to the newspaper stories that there was to be general disturbances of the office of the coal and land department upon the arrival of the new general agent, Mr. Loomis said: "I am not here after scalps. Results are what I want."

The headquarters of the department will remain in Scranton, Mr. Loomis stated.

VISITORS DAY AT THE ORAL SCHOOL

WORK SHOWN THE VISITORS WAS VERY INTERESTING.

The Pupils Participate in Drills and Other Exercises and Display the Progress They Have Made During the Year Under the Care of Miss Brown—Some Instances in Which the Oral School "Commencement" Differs from the Traditional Commencement in Other Schools.

Yesterday was visitors' day at the Pennsylvania Oral school and most interesting, indeed, was the work shown to the guests who were conveyed from room to room by one of the smiling teachers.

It is not called commencement day, as there is a marked absence of most of the accessories of the traditional commencement. To be sure, there are flowers in abundance, but they grow outside on the luxuriant rose trees, or bloom in riotous beauty in bowls about the rooms, but there is no long row of white-clothed maidens waiting for diplomas; there are no bouquets for them, no eager congratulations, no chorus singing, no rattles, no class prophesies, no salutatory, no valedictory with the fair pages and floating white ribbons.

From all these, and many other things, are these who have long "lost the golden key" that unlocks the door of silence, barred out. Among the "other things" are some for whose absence there may be those of us who attend the conventional commencement with appalling regularity, and perhaps even some of the "girl graduates" themselves, who might say a faint cause for congratulating the quiet throng at the Oral school.

For instance, they do not have to listen politely to long addresses by school controllers, teachers and other well-meaning but unregarded friends, and they are not half dead as the result of fendish examinations and soul-torturing envy as to "honors," graduation gowns, or perhaps the first dress suit.

Nothing less like a public institution in appearance than the Oral School for the Deaf can well be imagined. The cold, gray granite, as seen from the street, gives small idea of the beauty and light and brightness of the airy rooms, through the quaint tracery of the ironwork, are seen lovely glimpses of the rich brocade of ivy outside, the shadows of waving tree branches, the color of flowers and the flash of bird wings. It is an ideal spot, and no wonder that the little ones, whose sealed ears and dumb lips long for an alleviation to their poor faces when they first came, blossom out into radiance with sparkling eyes and mobile brows, as their days pass amid such benign surroundings.

SPECIMENS OF PUPILS' WORK.

There were many essays on exhibition, showing the ready intelligence of the pupils. They are beautifully written and indicate thought and study. Here is one by Charles L. Clark, of this city, who is in the class in English history. It should be remembered that this is not "show work," but everyday class exercise:

After the battle of Hastings William the Conqueror brought many Normans and working men and the Norman conquest of the island of England. The Norman working men built many castles and buildings. Among the famous buildings is London Tower. It was built not only for a residence of William the Conqueror, but a fortification. It has two walls around it and between the walls lies a moat, thus making that fortification very powerful.

For many centuries it was a prison until about two hundred years ago. The kings and queens of England had ordered the employment of men, which may be constructed by the company within the city of Scranton.

Mr. Wagner thought the corporations were granted too much exemption already by Supreme court decisions and moved to have the motion referred to committee. Messrs. Lansing and Chittenden explained that the purpose of the resolution was to indicate to the company that the council was desirous of encouraging it in every way possible to enlarge its works in this city and to also contract the effects as the movement of the new board of assessors to tax the locomotive shops on the strength of the technicality that they have become construction shops and do not behave. It is the duty of the children to obey. Some children are not self-governed. Some parents do not teach their children to be self-governed. The father and mother must teach the children to obey the laws of the city. The people who live in a city are called citizens. If the children do not obey the laws, they are punished.

AN ADDITION IS NEEDED.

Lackawanna Hospital Directors Will Meet Tomorrow.

The directors of the Lackawanna hospital will hold a meeting tomorrow morning for the purpose of discussing the question of building an addition to relieve the over-crowded condition of the institution.

There is sufficient space on the north side of the hospital to build the addition, but if that is done there will not be much room between the new building and the adjoining property. It is estimated that the addition will cost upwards of $50,000, and, as the money is not in sight, there is some speculation as to what the directors will do.

STILL ANOTHER CAVE-IN.

It is Quite Extensive but no Damage Has Resulted.

An extensive cave-in occurred yesterday on North Main avenue in the vicinity of Green Ridge street.

The hole is about thirty feet deep and extends over a considerable area. Figures leading from the cave run dangerously near one of the residences nearby.

The cave was in one of the old workings of the Van Storch mine, and is one of many which have occurred in that vicinity recently.

Jonas Long's Sons snapped another book bargain yesterday, when they bought an entire manufacturer's stock of several fine works, including over a hundred sets of the famous Standard Encyclopedia, published at $8. Among the good things are Mrs. Florence Stanton's famous "Cook Book," "Our War with Spain," as treated by the Hon. James Rankin Young; "Story of Our Christianity," by Professor Frederick M. Bird, of Lehigh University; and the Hon. Benjamin Harrison. Lovers of books may consider themselves fortunate on Saturday, when this great stock goes on sale at about twenty-five cents on the dollar.
